

President's Message—Kurt Steidle

What to name this month's article?

It is incredible that we are fast approaching the end of another year. I hope your Thanksgiving was wonderful and you are getting ready for the upcoming holidays. At this time of the year, the club's focus is on the Annual Christmas Dinner Meeting, then on to The Price Is Right/Barrett-Jackson game and the Awards Banquet in March.

We have had our 2024 elections and I welcome Suzanne Baker as Secretary and Cody Howry as Vice President to the Executive Board. They join Governor Scott Brenehan, Treasurer Carl Lally, Newsletter Editor Tony DeFelice, Membership Officer Mike Baker and me as President. As you know, Clyde Mooney is stepping down as Governor after serving on a variety of E-board roles over a couple of decades of service to the club. Sharon Roberts is also relinquishing the role of Secretary. Of course, Sharon has been involved in many roles of the club over the years as well. I can't thank them enough for their work and know the club joins me in their appreciation.

Marv Fox has also stepped down from Activities Chair after many years heading this team. New member Steve Colucci has graciously volunteered to take over the position. Thank you, Marv and Steve! Ken Unger is remaining as Parade Chair for 2024. Thank you, Ken!

Elsewhere in this newsletter you will once again find an article about the Annual Awards Nominations. The five categories remain the same as last year: Lifetime Achievement, Outstanding Worker(s), Unsung Hero, Outstanding Leader(s) and Outstanding New Member. I will arrange a committee to review the nominations and we will present these awards on March 2nd. This year, the voting will be done solely on-line via Survey Monkey. The link to this portal is shown in the article. When you vote, please add a comment describing why the person or persons are nominated. You don't need to re-write War and Peace but give a few sentences to support your selection.

We are grateful to have members who join in, take a lead and make us better as a group. These awards are a very small token of thanks and recognition for making the effort to be an active club member. Please participate and vote for those who deserve to be recognized.

Lastly, while thinking about the club, Clyde reported that LCCC has donated more than $898,000 to charities since its inception in 1978. Let that soak in. For a small club, that really is an incredible number. As a member, you should be proud of what this club has done for the community and it was done while we were enjoying our Corvettes!

As we enter into the December – have a Merry Christmas, Happy Hanukkah or whatever observance you celebrate – have a safe and memorable holiday!

- Kurt Steidle

2023 Club Award Nominations

Five Awards to Be Presented at The Annual Awards Banquet and Dinner Dance in March.

The club's Annual Awards Banquet and Dinner Dance is here again. Vice President Rick Evans is working on the banquet details. The flyer for making your reservation can be found in this newsletter. A deadline of January 28, 2024, is set to enable all the preparation to be completed on time.

President Kurt Steidle is organizing a committee to review nominations for the awards. The categories remain the same as last year's.

The following are the award categories with a description of each:

LCCC Lifetime Achievement Award—One person, recognized annually, for the consistently outstanding participation, involvement and contributions to the club throughout their membership tenure. Recognition should be limited to those individuals who have been members for 15 years or more.

LCCC Outstanding Worker(s)—Recognition of an individual or couple that consistently 'steps-up' to help in club activities throughout the year. Often, they go above and beyond in their efforts.

Jack Gerbic Career Recognition Badge article by Corvette Museum

Francis “Jack” Gerbic began his career with General Motors in 1948, building wooden station wagon bodies in Euclid, Ohio with Fisher Body. By the time Gerbic retired in 1991, he had risen to become Production Manager for GM’s Corvette plant in Bowling Green, Kentucky. In recognition of his long career at GM, Gerbic’s colleagues presented him with this gold-colored badge. Donated by Jack’s family, the badge is a token of thanks for a “43.2-year” professional journey in the auto industry.

Gerbic’s career is deeply intertwined with the movement of Corvette production to Bowling Green. In 1971, he became Quality Control Director of GM’s St. Louis plant, where Corvettes had been built since 1954. As Corvette production steadily increased throughout the decade, Gerbic became aware that the line could move to a new facility, but GM was unsure about where it would go. While the company explored its options, Gerbic joined the team tasked with evaluating new locations for a standalone Corvette plant. One of their options was a former Chrysler Airtemp plant, located just off Interstate 65 in South Central Kentucky.

Gerbic thought the Bowling Green plant would be a suitable new home for Corvette. It was easily accessible from both the highway and a nearby railroad spur. Plus, the building already existed. Although GM would have to build a new production line inside the factory, that was better than creating a whole new plant from scratch. Gerbic also recalled that he received a warm welcome from the Bowling Green Chamber of Commerce, which became another point in the town’s favor.

GM’s upper management agreed with Gerbic’s assessment. On March 11, 1980, the company made an official announcement for the Bowling Green community about Corvette’s impending move. Gerbic and his team shifted to planning the logistics of the move, structuring the plant’s staff, and hiring and training new personnel. Gerbic also helped to develop a new painting process at the Bowling Green plant. Although 1981 model year Corvettes were built in Bowling Green and St. Louis, only the Bowling Green Corvettes used the new system.

When Gerbic received his retirement badge, the plant he helped to choose had already been building Corvettes for 10 years. The National Corvette Museum would open three years later, firmly entrenching the past, present, and future of the Corvette in Bowling Green.

Ode to the Corvette Wife...

Whether it is showing, competitive driving, cruising, gathering, or just reliving our youth; we all have made an investment in something that most people don't. Let's face it, you wouldn't be in this club unless you had some level of passion for the Corvette.

I always loved Corvettes; my first poster was of a 1969 convertible in Fathom Green—sorry Farrah. One of my first cars was an Opel GT, because it was only $450 and it looked like a baby Corvette. I knew I would have to work hard and wait to get a Corvette, but little did I know it would take so long.

My brother is a year older than me, and when he graduated college and got a job, he purchased a red '67 with a white rag top and a 327. He liked 'Vettes as much as I did. Well, that blew it for me, when I graduated I couldn't get the same kind of car he had so I got an IROC-Z.

Fast forward through the years and while I had a number of nice cars, they always had to do double duty so I always opted for an affordable ride that was generally winter capable. Even when I got older and could afford something nicer, I was still limited to a daily driver; there was always a need for something else first.

Then along comes Lisa. We both had been through a divorce after 20+ years of marriage. Also, we both always put the needs of others before our own. So the thought of luxury items wasn't high on our list. It didn't take long for us to put ourselves in a good financial position and before too long we had the wherewithal to do what we wanted.

She knew of my passion for Corvettes and after I cried enough about it, she relented and we went to look for one.

Based on what we wanted to spend, a low mileage C5 was the sweet spot. It had to be convertible since we "agreed" that it was going to be used for ice cream runs and Sunday drives.

We went to Klick-Lewis and they had a couple of cars but nothing I was interested in. I had my mind set on a yellow car, but everything I found was too expensive. She saw the 2003 vert and said I should look at it. I did and wasn't impressed.

After looking a bit more, she said I should go back and look at the 2003 again. This time they had it cleaned up and that was it...I was in love.

Finally, at 50 I had my Corvette and a willing partner at my side. What could be better...

Well, the "agreement" we made had a flexible definition in my mind. She agreed that we would use it for nice drives, I agreed that we would certainly do so...and then some.

Our first modification was to put a cold air intake on it; we did it together, that was awesome. Well the agreement continued to have an ever broader definition and I continued to modify.

See, the other passion I had was drag racing. From the minute I got behind the wheel at 16, if there was an opportunity to smash the accelerator through the floor, I would take it. It didn't matter what I was driving, I would street race at any time. Put these two passions together and look out bank account!! Also, I found that as my definition of our agreement broadened, so did her definition of our sleeping arrangements. To say Lisa was less than pleased with my continuous upgrades, would be an understatement.

You may think she was upset about all the money I was spending, but no, that's not it. She was and is concerned about my safety. She does not want to get that fateful phone call. It is her concern about my health and well-being that drives her opinion of my upgrades.

I must give props to her, while she is deathly afraid of something happening to me while racing, she puts my passion before her needs. To sacrifice your needs in deference for someone else's wants is a true show of love. So for those Corvette wives (husbands, partners, etc.) who put up with the racing, the shows, the expenses, and every other sacrifice to keep this passion alive—here's to you!

Dangles—Carl Lally

Dangle - A Dangle is an item which hangs from a club member's nametag to commemorate a special achievement, notable accomplishment, and/or support for our club's activities. Each Dangle symbolizes a goal achieved or an experience shared. They are great conversation starters, as club members who've "been there and done that" compare notes. In short, this is another way to add a little more fun to our club events. Who doesn't like chatting with others about accomplishments?!

2023 Activities – Summit Point

The air is filled with the unmistakable scent of burning rubber and the high-pitched hum of powerful engines. Today is a special day - it's instructor appreciation day and I've been invited to be a +1 for none other than Jim Roberts.

I pull into the parking lot, and my heart races with a mix of anticipation and nervousness. This is my first track day, and I can't believe I get to share it with a track monster like Jim. The atmosphere is electric as I check in and receive my wristband for access to the paddock.

The first session is a mix of nerves and exhilaration! Jim is there every step of the way, providing guidance over the radio, helping me refine my lines and technique. The rush of speed, the precision of the handling, and the camaraderie among fellow track enthusiasts create an unforgettable experience.

After a few exhilarating laps in my own car (138 mph), it's time for the ride along with Jim Roberts in his personal car (148 mph). Flying through the corners at high speed, there is no hesitation in his maneuvers. Every acceleration, every brake, and every subtle shift in weight seemed calculated! Then it was my dad's turn, they both hopped into Jim's car and off they went! After 4-5 laps they came back and said that was the most intense drive he ever had. First thing he said was "Jim knows how the hell to drive!" As the day came to a close, I'm left with a newfound appreciation for the art of high performance driving.

Little did I know that this trip would not only be about the thrill of high-performance drive but also unexpected connections. The thrill didn't start on the track. The night before, we were meeting up for dinner and on my way in I was sitting further back from the car in front of me at the traffic stop and noticed a car full of girls driving by. The passenger locked eyes with me and in that brief moment, and I knew what needed to be done.

Pulling up beside them they all glanced over. She rolled down her window and started up a conversation. The light turned green and we went our separate ways. Little did I expect, about 35 minutes later, a car would beep, and a voice would call out, "Hey cutie, do you want my number?" It was the girl from the traffic stop! We exchanged information and needless to say the interaction was worth the purchase of a corvette. That chapter is to be continued...

“The Price Is Right!”

Barrett-Jackson
Auto Auction
January 23-27, 2024

With the flood of daily headlines that make you want to stop reading the newspaper, turn-off the news, and quite possibly lose your lunch, it seems like an opportune time to look to the future when we can turn our attention elsewhere and for the 18th CONSECUTIVE YEAR enjoy a little diversion with your fellow LCCC members that we call “The Price Is Right”!

LCCC’s annual prognosticating extravaganza, “The Price Is Right”, is your opportunity to join everyone within LCCC in a friendly 5-day competition where you get to showcase your sometimes magical ability to peer into the future and predict the exact “hammer price” of about 30 (plus-or-minus) plastic-bodied beauties – each and every one hand-picked by your slightly sinister and somewhat depraved Master of Ceremonies from the entire auction field of Corvettes at January’s Barrett-Jackson Scottsdale Auction. Just for fun, we’ll throw-in a few unique “non-Corvettes” crossing the stage on “Big Money” Saturday to keep it interesting for those that have stumbled along the way and are out of the running for any of our top contest prizes.

As always, we’ll have prizes for the top three finishers, the top rookie, the player with the most “bull’s eyes”, the team that ultimately vanquishes the others, and maybe a few other good-natured awards. “Penalty Bands” will remain the same as the past few years: guess within 25% of the actual selling price, and your “penalty” will simply be the difference between the two. Miss by more than 25% but less than 50%, and we’ll double the difference. Miss by 50% or more, and you’ll enjoy a 3X penalty along with a good chance of spending some “time in the barrel” of your MC’s daily commentary, along with some well-deserved giggles from your fellow competitors. For those new to the action, if you’re concerned that you’ll be the only one who frequents the triple-punishment category, we can assure you that you’ll have plenty of company from everyone who plays – no-body escapes unscathed! Our very popular (and often game-saving) “Get Out of Jail Free” rule is back (which automatically eliminates your single worst penalty), once again accompanied by the “Kevin Hart” rule, which completely removes from our contest any vehicle where some idiot (aka, Kevin Hart) bids the price up so absurdly that the “Get Out of Jail Free” rule must be applied to our entire field on a single car. If you’re still not sure why this rule exists, Google “Barrett Jackson 2021 Lot 1358”, or “Kevin Hart spends way too much on a Corvette”. Results will be provided each day after the final gavel falls via email (in both .pdf and Excel spreadsheet format), accompanied by the widely anticipated comedic commentary from your MC which adds just the right degree of levity to the proceedings that has kept our TPIR veterans returning year after year.

Based on the successful process we’ve managed to follow in the last few years, the official LCCC “The Price Is Right” auction entry form WILL NOT appear in the January newsletter and will ONLY go out to all members via email blast in early January. All entries must be received VIA EMAIL no later than Saturday, January 20, 2024 at 9:00pm CST (that’s 10:00pm for you folks in the Keystone state). At that point I’ll get all of the predictions loaded into the spreadsheet and contact last year’s top finishers – who will draft their teams from the full roster of all participants, select an appropriate moniker for their band of combatants, and initiate the generally genial “trash talk” as the fun begins!

2024 Activities—BJPR

As the action reaches a climax on Saturday night, the “The Price Is Right” wrap-up viewing party is always a great gathering, where friendship and good-natured ribbing of fellow competitors is as widely shared as the potluck food and drink. If you are interested in hosting this evening of good fun and even better inter-membership camaraderie, drop me an email and let me know.

Questions? Ask anyone who has participated over the last few years, drop me an email at zr1-zo6@comcast.net, or just give me a call at 717.201.4690. This is clearly an activity where “the more the merrier” rings true, so there’s really no good reason to sit on the sidelines and let others have all the fun (and the prizes)! Besides, given the choice between tuning into some more news that will most certainly raise your blood pressure or participating with your fellow LCCC members in an enjoyable diversion, which alternative are you going to take? ☺

Last year we had 35 members take the plunge and test their prognosticating abilities against the fervor of Scottsdale’s jacked-up, Corvette-hungry attendees. I’d love to see us DOUBLE that number this year and turn our contest to see who grabs the “Rookie of the Year” award into a horserace more exciting than the Kentucky Derby! Wishing everyone a wonderful holiday season, good luck and great guessing, your Master of Ceremonies...
